anticorrelation

The negative correlation of two random variables. A form of correlation where the value of one variable grows larger as the value of the other variables grows smaller. See figure ACO.

Formally, two variables are anticorrelated, when their correlation coefficient is negative.

Figure ACO: anticorrelation, correlation coefficient: $r = -0.42$