

regression line

The graph of a linear regression function of the form $y = ax + b$, where a and b are called the regression coefficients. The coefficient a determines the slope of the function and b its intercept. A regression line is often drawn through a scatter plot to visualize the relationship between two random variables.